THE TRIP.

FRI 23, FEBRUARY, 1973. Tim Graham drove us to Strathfield. Got 6-11pm train to Mt Victoria ($2-50 Return). Vince didn't appear to be on the train but he turned up around Capstone. He'd been up the front 2 hours. Arrived at Mt. Victoria about 8-9pm.

Passed by P.S so we left our names. (where we were going (only one other group went out this weekend)).

Darkness. Turned off at Mt Victoria Falls sign. Darkness. Straining eyes to see anything. Fortunately no rain at this stage. Only light was from Graham's boots & the blinding match that was lit occasionally. Walked for what seemed to be hours & hours. Very dark - no moon & complete cloud cover, could only just see the guy next to you.

Couldn't find anywhere to camp along the road so decided to go to the lookout for the night got there at about 10-15pm. Camped in the shed on the ground (cement everywhere) & uncomfortable didn't get a very good sleep.

SAT 24 - Had an early breakfast, woke 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ am left about 7-30 am for Goose R. walked back along track to point about $\frac{1}{2}$ way along it. Turned off here for the river.

Passed through trees shrubs & rocky terrain. Had to use ropes for one section (see pictures 2) eventually got to the river. Followed it rest of way till camp. Walked along the river + sometimes in + through it when necessary to avoid huge rocks, boulders or vegetation whence too thick. Rested occasionally + ate. Many freshwater crayfish in the river all the way. Talk about hard.

As we got on to the more difficult part - Huge boulders blocked our way right across the river - here the water plunged over up to heights of 8-10 feet in deep pools. Therefore we found it necessary to go around them. One such example caused great trouble + much time. The vegetation was exceptionally dense + thick with many thorned vines requiring cutting. Once around this weg it was necessary to lower ourselves down with ropes to get to the river level. There were only two or three such obstacles but it was extremely difficult to overcome them.

Many smaller examples of somewhat similar examples abounded. These we either jumped down from or sat down or slide the rest of the way. Sometimes we were on all fours.

The river base consisted of gravel and boulders + increasing quantities of sand towards the lower reaches.

The trip took us 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours (including 3 hr rest time) This got us to camp at about 7-15 pm. Everyone was completely exhausted.

Camp was set up + tea made. I went to bed early.

Rained only occasionally during the day. But this didn't matter too much as we were continually (at least 100 times) crossing the river, mostly at knee deep level. But once af to waist level. (got sleeping bag container wet).

~~The~~ One stone I jumped off & sank down to my knee - Son got out of that.

Rained during the night. Vince/Tony tent was pitched in a sort of hole, they woke up with their tent under 1/2 inch water & sleeping bags soaked. Decks got wet too, mine on in small patches.

SUN 25 - Raining still when we got up. I had can of cold baked beans & stayed in tent till rain ceased.

We packed up & left for Victoria falls.

Well what do you know there was a track all the way. (got a picture(63) of camp) Not mud at times but still a track. Made good progress. Still a little climbing & 2 or three times across the river.

Saw one good camp site on other side of the river from our own camp - grassed over and flat.

Made the bottom of the falls, rocks were white.
Vince took a picture of the falls for me.

Long way up to the top. Made the top in good time had dinner up there. Took 2 pictures of the valley from the lookout.

Walked back to Mt Victoria in about 1 1/2 hrs.
Left for Sydney on the 4-30 train got home at 7-o'clock (got wet when off the bus at the top of Dreadnaught St.)
